

Phil Wilkinson

Introduction

I am passionate about computers I have studied them my whole life. From fundamentals like hardware, software and programming. I am very qualified and knowledgeable with all aspects of computing. At holidays and weekends I freelance mainly in web design and general computing and have been very successful. I have a passion for data security and reverse engineering. I love building computers and robots as well as flying camera drones, I make video games in my spare time as well as helping family & friends with their computer problems. I also run a game server from home using an old HP proliant tower server that I use to play online games with my household.
